What did you find to be the best aspects of this course?

Comment
Interesting content.
In class discussion of real world examples
The cases weren't the standard HBS cases but brought in some variation.
The parts of the lectures where the students were able to talk. I liked discussing the cases.
Best aspects were the in class discussions.
Great discussions - really appreciated the way we were able to have discussions in class to dig deeper into the subject matter. This course was great overall. Also, Daniel and Alex were exceptional. If at all possible, please invite them back to teach future sessions of this course.
The cases were very good and among the best I read at Owen. They were useful, not bloated with useless information, and interesting.
The perspective both brought to the class kept the lectures interesting.

How could the course be improved?

Comment
More organized - one of our cases was cancelled and it was 30% of the final grade
The dual professor method is not the greatest idea.
It's really hard to cover so much material so quickly. We cover a lot of complex issues at a rapid pace. Not sure what could be changed exactly as you would have to sacrifice content quantity to change anything.
It was sometimes a little too theoretical and I couldn't follow what was going on. The cases were also a little too focused on valuation etc. and not on what we just learned in class.
The class could use a little more structure. The material did not build upon itself well.
The worst aspect was the changing of assignments toward the end of the class. To change the syllabus at the last minute by taking away an assignment, and subsequently adding one during the last week of the mod is incredibly difficult to accomplish with care. The busiest week of the year just became unpredictable.
Disney case questions were never delivered and then the assignment cancelled. Then the assignment was reinstated at a lessor level. It was clear this aspect of the course was either not well planned or not well executed.
Minor issue with posting case questions that pushed an assignment into the last week (when lots of other things are due) on short notice. That said, I know Daniel and Alex faced significant logistical challenges with teaching this course and it's a pretty small gripe.
1. The group cases has nothing to do with the things taught in class. We are unprepared for them. 2. Final exam is a take-home, but we will be given only 3 hrs to do it online. So please don't call it a "take-home"
I do not like when deliverables are changed late in the course. It happens in the real world and it's not really a big deal, but annoying.

What final grade do you expect to receive in this course?
